

Loughton Wombles Newsletter

7 December 2023 - No 15

The Wombles were out again litter picking on Saturday 25 November 2023. The group met on the corner of Brook Road and continued litter picking along Roding Road. As you can see from the photo below, the collection just about fitted into the Council Van!

Our next group litter pick will be on Saturday 16 December 2023. Please come forward to me with suggestions of locations in Loughton which we have not 'Wombed' before. It's always good to explore new and different areas and make our presence known.

Below I've put the "bin the butt" advert, we thought we would share an interesting fact that research shows that almost half of smokers are unaware that any cigarette they toss in the street could actually end up in the ocean through drains. Hopefully spreading this fact will make smokers think about how they dispose of their cigarette butts.

Once again, we thank you for your support.

Regards

Debbie & Mark

FLICKING BLUE MURDER...

What begins on our streets can end in our seas.

Cigarette butts contain micro-plastics and chemicals that poison marine life.
