Editor's notes

IT hardly seems believable that I am writing this in the heat of summer, and elsewhere in the magazine we are inviting entries to our Christmas competitions and giving advance notice of the Light Up a Life ceremony. Although the works to the High Road, as part of the town centre enhancement, are now well under way, they will be suspended for the Christmas period to enable everyone to shop unimpeded.

If you have passed the site of the new Community and Youth Centre in Borders Lane, you may have stopped to look at its progress. So far there is not a lot to see as most of the initial works are in the ground, but before long there will be visible evidence as the building takes shape.

The council's committees are about to start the budgeting process and they will be thinking about what they want to achieve in the next financial year and what it will cost. It is always a balance between wanting to carry out projects for the town's benefit and ensuring that any increase in the precept is kept to a reasonable level.

You may have heard that the council has temporarily withdrawn its planning application for a cemetery in Debden Lane. This is true, but it does not mean the council has abandoned the project. Before the application can be processed by Epping Forest District Council, further information is required to satisfy the Environment Agency. The necessary surveys will be carried out to obtain this information, and the application will be re-submitted. Although there is a wide variety of views on the best way to dispose of the dead, in the end this is a very personal decision. The Town Council has, in the past, received a number of representations that there was a need for a cemetery in Loughton. In response to this, a policy decision was taken some time ago that the council would seek to establish a new cemetery, and this is what it is doing now.

The transfer of the Willingale Road allotments from the district to the Town Council is a saga which has dragged on far too long. The latest promised date for completion was the end of July 2005. Although this was not achieved, the legal documents I have seen most recently encourage me to hope that completion might not be too far off. It will truly be a cause for celebration when ownership of the land changes hands.

If you contact the town council by email, please note our new email address contact@loughton-tc.gov.uk.

It's easier than ever to be heard

LOUGHTON Town council has amended its standing orders to make it easier for members of the public to address any of its committee meetings.

This opportunity has been available for some while, and people wishing to take advantage of it must register their request in advance.

The deadline for registering a request to speak is now 3pm on the day of the meeting. This gives local residents more time to find out what is on the agenda and decide if they would like to have an input at the meeting.

Written representations to the Planning Committee must also be received by 3pm on the day of the meeting.

Committee agendas can be seen on the council's website (www.loughton-tc.gov.uk), and a notice listing the matters to be discussed at meetings is also placed on council noticeboards.

A copy of the standing orders is also available on the website

– see appendices B and C for rules on addressing a meeting.

■ Meanwhile, we welcome a new addition to the team; Paul Hoy joined Loughton Town Council on 4 July as the new Properties & Projects Officer.

His predecessor, Paul Roden, left in June to return to Chesterfield. Paul Hoy is an apprentice-trained bricklayer, who worked in the building industry for 17 years. In 1997, he joined the probation service and for the past eight years has worked in the community service team.

In this time, many of the beneficiaries as well as the projects Paul has undertaken have been Loughton-based, so he already has an affinity with the town.

Paul has lived in the Epping area for 10 years, although he originates from East London.

His main interest is sport and he coaches his son's football team, Ongar Juniors U-12b.

Paul looks forward to his new role, as he is keen to use his skills and knowledge in the service of the community.

Moped crackdown

AS REPORTED in the Winter 2004 edition of Think Loughton, the use of mopeds, scrambler bikes and motorised skateboards and scooters has become a real problem on the area's public open spaces.

So much so that a working group has produced a strategy for dealing with those who flout the law. The Town Council and its partners, Essex Police and Epping Forest District Council, are targeting owners and riders. There will be more foot patrols by the Community Policing Team and a leafleting campaign aimed at informing residents of how they can help.

Posters will also be placed at key points around Roding Valley Recreation Ground reminding riders that they are acting illegally. Anyone with information, call Loughton Police on 01279 641212.

Loughton Old Girls do lunch

MEMBERS of Loughton High School Old Girls' Association are hoping former schoolmates will join them for lunch and an afternoon of entertainment and reminiscences with old friends and staff on Saturday May 13, 2006.

To secure a place, please send a £10 deposit to Treasurer Susan Lawes, 72 Arrendene Road, Haverhill, Suffolk CB9 9JT by 16 September 2005.

The full cost will be £25, to include lunch and wine. The balance will be payable by 31 January.

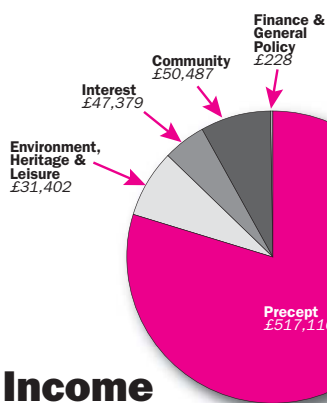

For further details, email LCMS100@hotmail.com or call Ros Ellis on 07776 135822.

Held to account

THE charts summarise the Town Council's financial activity for the year 2004/05.

They refer to the income and expenditure during the year, and are mainly allied to the council's committees.

They are in a simpler format than the formal end-of-year accounts which the council is required to produce by statute, but also give a clear picture of where the money comes from and where it is spent.

There are a couple of new headings this year. 'Corporate management' accounts for much the same expenditure as that described as 'General admin' last year, and refers to costs which can not be directly attributed to running a service.

'Democratic Services' refers to the cost of democracy, such as elections and council meetings.

In the latter part of the year, work on the new Community & Youth Centre gathered pace, and this is reflected in increased financial activity. In this partnership project with Essex County

Expenditure

Council, the Town Council is paying the bills in the first instance, then invoicing the county for its share of the cost. Therefore, we can see large sums spent and significant income received.

At the end of the year, the council held £572,245 in general reserves, and £393,937 in reserves for specific purposes.

We have better news this year concerning the audit of the council's accounts. The years 2002/3 and 2003/4 have now been audited.

No major issues have been found, although there are some matters related to presentation still to be resolved. The audit certificate will not be issued until outstanding matters have been cleared up.

The Town Council has approved the accounts for 2004/5 but no date has been set for their audit. They will be published by 31 October, with an audit opinion if the audit has been carried out by then.

Community Forum to meet

THE TOWN Council is planning to hold a Community Forum in October. We hope to have as our speakers the new Chief Constable of Essex and the recently appointed Chief Superintendent for the Harlow Division (which incorporates Loughton).

The Forum is open to all local residents and is an opportunity to meet your councillors and other

The date has yet to be confirmed, but will probably be 13 or 20 October at the Methodist Church Hall, High Road, at 8pm.

Look out for the exact date either in the local Guardian newspaper, on the town council noticeboards or website www.loughton-tc.gov.uk, or give the office a call to check the details.

Plaque for war dead

EARLIER this year, the then Loughton Town Mayor, Cllr Chris Pond, was honoured to unveil the civilian war memorial which the council had erected.

The plaque is on the wall of the Loughton police station in Forest Road and lists 32 names of Loughton civilians killed during World War II.

Local resident Norma Cross first suggested the plaque. She thought the council might want to commemorate Ben Platten as part of its Blue Heritage Plaque Scheme.

Mrs Cross had been contacted by a relative of Mr Platten, a pacifist who was killed in Loughton in the war. He was a well-known local figure, a journalist, civil defence worker and councillor for Chigwell Urban District Council. Loughton's Environment, Heritage & Leisure Committee agreed to erect a plaque which would commemorate all civilians.

Council officer Paul Roden carried out extensive research into the names to be inscribed on the plaque.

Essex Police were asked to agree to the plaque as the police station marked the spot where the bomb fell which killed Mr Platten and two others. It is also a highly visible location which can be seen by all passers-by.

The date of the unveiling was particularly apposite as it was the 60th anniversary of the signing of the German capitulation throughout Europe.

Alex Wilson, who works for the council and is also an accomplished bagpipes player, played two laments at the ceremony.

Guests included relatives of some of those named on the plaque, as well as local councillors and residents.

Afterwards, all the guests gathered for refreshments and the opportunity to chat and reminisce.

Cllrs Chris Pond and Janet Woods, chairman of the Environment, Heritage & Leisure Committee, told the assembly about how the plaque came about and some of the personal stories behind the names.

Many Loughtonians had volunteered for dangerous war work, including in the medical services, the ARP, the police and fire services, and other voluntary services.

Of course you can!

WORKERS Educational Association Loughton & Epping Branch is pleased to announce a full winter programme of classes and activities.

Highly qualified tutors are allocated to the WEA by the Eastern area of the movement, based in Cambridge.

No previous qualifications are needed, except a commitment to worthwhile study and an enjoyment of life-long learning field trips. The programme features theatre and museum visits as well as some social activities.

For details, see the publicity boards in local libraries, or alternatively call 020 8508 3183.

■ THE next series of British Red Cross First Aid courses has been arranged to enable residents to gain vital first aid skills.

They will be held at Lincoln Hall, Loughton High Road, and begin in September with Basic First Aid, either over five Monday evenings starting on 12 September or one day courses on 24 September or 19 November. These courses cost £30 including training materials and manual.

A comprehensive Standard First Aid course is also scheduled to start in January.

For details, call 020 8508 2162 between 10.30am and 12.30pm, except Tuesday.

Fun in the sun – hopefully

RODING Valley High School is holding a family fun day on Sunday 18 September between 11am and 4pm.

The playground is the venue and is situated on Brook Road.

The entrance fee is £1 for adults, children free.

Refreshments include a barbecue, ice creams and homemade cakes. Local firefighters will be on hand, emergencies permitting, to show children how to drive a fire engine.

The Duke of Edinburgh's Awards Trailer has a mobile climbing wall which can be used by children with the help of an instructor.

The school is donating half of the takings to Epping Forest District Council's chosen charity, the Chigwell Riding Trust.

For more details, call 020 8508 1173.

In the Decorated Christmas Window Competition, Loughton shops and businesses are invited to dress their windows in a Christmas theme. The closing date for entries is 18 November.

All entrants will receive a certificate to display in their window and the winners will receive a certificate, an engraved cup to keep for 11 months and a £100 donation to the charity of their choice.

A list of entrants will appear on the Town Council web site and on all its notice boards to encourage shoppers.

Last year, the three winners were Flower Elegance, 51 The Broadway; Past Times, 235

The Christmas Card Competition is open to everyone and the Town Council will use the winning design as its official Christmas card.

There are five age-related categories and the winner in each class will receive a £20 gift token. A certificate is awarded to a runner-up from each category.

The best entries will be displayed in Loughton and Debden libraries during the run up to Christmas. The closing date is 31 October. Last year's winner was Nathaniel

Learn to love your library

LOUGHTON Library's Learn direct IT courses (everything from absolute beginners to high flyers) go from strength to strength.

You can gain confidence and a certificate at the same time to help with job prospects or for leisure and most of the beginner's courses are free.

Loughton Library also continues to build on the successes of its one to one IT coaching sessions, including 'getting started' with basic computer use, email, internet and office applications.

The library is also holding the following events:

■ 1 Oct, 10am-4pm: Local and Family History Day. Loughton & District Historical Society, members of the East London

Family History Society and the Essex Record Office will all be attending to give advice and information.

■ 8-16 Oct: Family Learning Week. The theme this year is 'Our World About Us', and there will be lots of activities under a 'Discover Your Library' banner.

■ 27 Oct, 2pm: Lynn Forest-Hill, from the Tolkien Society, will explain how events in Essex 1,000 years ago came to inspire the Lord of the Rings books and films we know so well today.

Airbag 'won't save you'

AT THE Town Council's request, Essex Police ran more speed monitoring exercises, in Church Hill, Valley Hill and Westall Road on 30 June.

The number of speeding offences was as expected, but a high number of motorists were not wearing seat belts.

Motorists are misguided in assuming that their vehicles' airbags will save them in an accident.

The Town Council is awaiting a county council report on a one-year trial of speed indicator devices, SIDs, before pressing for improved speed reduction measures.

Anti-crime initiatives show signs of success

CRIME and disorder continues to be part of everyday life within our communities.

And it is the aim of Essex Police to reduce such incidents and make the county a much safer place to live in.

Over the last three years, we have worked with other agencies under the Epping Forest Crime & Disorder Reduction Partnership (CDRP) and made significant inroads in tackling local issues such as anti-social behaviour and people's fear of crime.

For example, an action plan was created to tackle incidents of crime and anti-social behaviour on the Oakwood Hill Estate, in response to a 106 per cent increase in reported crime over the past year. We also saw an alarming increase in the number of complaints concerning anti-social behaviour.

The CDRP decided that we would implement a Ten Point Action Plan to reduce this trend in crime and help tackle the anti-social behaviour. Importantly this plan was discussed with local residents and the Residents Association was consulted.

The plan was implemented in February and figures show there has been a marked reduction in crime – but there is still more work to be done.

The installation of CCTV has been completed in and around the local store and community centre, and the police will soon be able to view the system from Loughton station. Street lighting there will also be upgraded.

A community action day was held on the estate in May and local people were invited to come and talk to local service heads, as well as the police, regarding their concerns. The charity Nacro is carrying out a 12-week action plan to encourage local youths into sports-based activities.

The Vineyard Church has offered its services free of charge to estate residents, in relation to decorating.

Essex Police has provided more of a uniform presence on the estate – it has a beat officer and a dedicated police community support officer, and they hold regular surgeries in the community centre. We are also looking to tackle crime and disorder in other areas, such as the Broadway.

Loughton is a safe place, but we all have a part to play in keeping it that way.

Help us to help you

LAST year, Loughton and District CAB, the charity for your community, helped thousands of local people solve their problems.

And they brought additional money into the area by helping people to get the money from welfare benefits and pensions to which they are entitled.

The CAB also dealt with debt worth around £1.35m, saved many from losing their homes, and supported dozens of people dismissed or unfairly treated by their employers. Research shows that 37 per cent of people who used a CAB were financially better off as a result.

Loughton CAB has a vibrant workforce of professional advisers who undergo rigorous training. Some bring a wide range of experience from their previous working lives whilst others use the training and work to help them into paid employment in the long term or even find a solution to their own problems.

Our staff find their work rewarding and enjoyable, and most stay with us for many years.

To help us solve the thousands of problems local people bring to us, we have a comprehensive, electronic information system equivalent to 12,000 paper pages, and this is updated centrally every month so we can answer practically every query.

I am pleased to report that the bureau scored very highly overall in our recent client satisfaction survey, with as many as 94 per cent of clients who were 'very satisfied' with the service they received.

We are very proud of the service we provide, and we try to deal with all the problems people have, not just the one issue they come to see us about, so it's holistic.

However, it should be remembered that we are a charity and I would like to express my personal gratitude for all the many individual donations we receive from our clients and larger sponsors. If you are interested in learning more about us, or supporting us in any way, please get in touch.
